R. KELSO CARTER. A Scientific Explanation of the Coming

Great Millenium. Professor H. Kelso Carter has for the past 20 years been a very successful instructor of physical science and the academy at Chester, Pa. In the course of his scientific studies the professor has arrived at startling conclusions respecting the significance of that much specting the significance of that much abused expression, "the millenium." He considers that the earth and other planets of the solar system are surrounded by belts of vaporous matter which are constantly assuming a different position with respect to their central bodies. From being parallel with the equators of their respective planets, these belts gradually turn and flatten until they successively become a greenuntil they successively become a green-house covering and finally fall to the sorface altogether. The first and last stages of change cause a glacial age while the intermed ate stage, the greenhouse covering, produces a warm epoch or edenic period.

Prof. Carter thinks that the earth is now spproaching another warm age such as prevailed before the deluge, and that during this coming era the duralonged. This warm age like the preceding glacial era will have an end and be followed by another age of cold.
